

UNODC( United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime):

1.HUMAN ORGAN TRAFFICKING

Global demand for healthy human organs is increasingly greater than the supply available; consequently, many patients in need of a transplant suffer or die while waiting for an organ donation. The result is human organ trafficking: the illicit trade of human organs and tissues.

2.CORRUPTION IN PRISONS SYSTEMS

Corruption is a widespread global issue that manifests itself in a number of ways. Prisons systems are at high risk of corruption; however, current international legislations fail to address corruption and associated illicit activity in these environments.